ABOUT YOUR HOSTS

The Australian and New Zealand Head and Neck Cancer Society was established in 1998 to promote quality care for all head and neck cancer patients. The ANZHNCS Research Foundation provides the facilities and support that researchers need to better understand head and neck cancers, with the ultimate aim of preventing and curing these diseases.

Head and Neck Cancer Australia was established in 2016 and is the only national charity dedicated to raising awareness of Head and Neck Cancer and improving the outcomes of people affected through free education, information, support and advocacy. In March 2025 HANCA launched Australia's first Head and Neck Cancer Helpline providing free specialist nursing and counselling support to people impacted by Head and Neck Cancer across Australia.

ABOUT THE CAUSE

Head and Neck Cancer is brutal. For many of the 5,300 people newly diagnosed each year it is a devastating disease, unlike any other.

While survival rates are 71%, treatment for Head and Neck Cancer is widely acknowledged to be among the toughest on patients often taking away basic abilities that many of us take for granted, like speaking, eating, breathing, swallowing, and can leave some people unable to smile or laugh. For others, it results in profound facial disfigurement with the removal of part of a person's face that is impossible to conceal.

Sadly, each year, more than 1,100 Australians lose their lives to Head and Neck Cancer.
